Hello Dr. Powell,

My name is Colin Devroe, I live in Simpson now and grew up on Gravity Road in Whites Crossing. We've met a few times here and there.

I believe I reached out to you via the Carbondale Historical Society website or email regarding scanning negatives of old film photos. At the time you mentioned that activity was well underway.

I was wondering the status of that project?

I have two reasons to ask. I now have a fully functional darkroom in my basement. So if there are any negatives that you'd like enlargements for - I'd be happy to help out. I can create prints of almost any size. And, second, I'd love to see a repository of these photos exist online either via Flickr's Commons or on a website of its own. I have been a web developer for 25 years and can help with that as well.

Let me know if we can chat.

Colin:

Good to hear from you.

Preserving photographs (old and new) is one of the highest priorities of the Carbondale Historical Society.

I am at the Historical Society, all day, every day (including Saturday). Perhaps you could stop at the Historical Society some time, and we could talk about possibilities? Give me at least a day's advance notice of your visit so I can be sure to be here.

Good morning Dr. Powell,

Would you be at the CHS tomorrow, Friday the 20th at around 2pm? Would it be OK if I stopped in to chat?

Colin:

I enjoyed very much--and learned a lot about the electronic world--during your visit here earlier today.

As I mentioned earlier, everything that I have written about the Delaware and Hudson Railroad can be read via Internet Archive.

Attached is a copy of my D&H Bibliography. When you are on the homepage of Internet Archive, searching for these D&H publications by their exact title makes it very easy to access the specific article or volume that you're looking for.

In total, I have uploaded 386 items to Internet Archive.

Best,

SRP
